SUMMER Is Upon Us!

As summer approaches, we are reminded how important it is to keep our youth connected, supported, and engaged in a safe and encouraging environment. At The Post Youth Center, we've seen firsthand how consistent community and intentional relationships can make a lasting difference. One student, who first walked through our doors shy and withdrawn, struggled to connect with peers and often kept to themselves during activities. Through regular attendance, encouragement from staff, and opportunities to engage in group games and conversations, this student slowly began to open up. Over time, they started initiating conversations, participating in group activities, and even welcoming new students. Their growth in confidence and social skills has been incredible to witness, showing just how impactful a supportive environment can be.

As we enter the summer months, the need for a place like The Post becomes even greater. With more free time and fewer structured activities, many youth are left without guidance, connection, or positive outlets. Our summer programming is designed to meet that need by providing a safe space where youth can build friendships, grow in their identity, and be surrounded by caring mentors who model a Christ-centered life. We are committed to continuing this life-changing work, ensuring that every young person who walks through our doors has the opportunity to grow not only socially, but spiritually as well.
