Making the Right Connections

At The Post, we believe the right connection at the right time can make a difference in a young person's life. Our Kick Off for Kids theme, "Be an interception to a young person's life," is about stepping in when a young person needs someone to listen, guide, encourage, and help them see a different way forward. Sometimes, being that interception simply means being present and creating a safe place where youth know they are not alone.

Recently, two of our students found themselves in a difficult situation with each other. Instead of allowing the conflict to grow, we took time to sit down, pray together, and talk through what happened. With guidance and encouragement, they were able to understand one another and, in the end, shake hands. That is what the right connection can look like. It is about being there, creating space for growth, and helping our youth learn how to move forward together.

"Two are better than one... If either of them falls down, one can help the other up." — Ecclesiastes 4:9-10
